Advance Work Expected To Bring Quick Collapse Of French Resistance

ALGIERS' FALL CITED

American Agents Assured Former Allies That U. S. Planned Deliverance

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—The United States government today is understood to be counting on the advance work of American diplomatic agents in French North Africa leading to a quick collapse of French resistance there.

Swift capitulation of the vitally important port of Algiers to American forces has encouraged the belief that the preparatory work carried out by the U. S. diplomatic agents may be meeting with the desired success.

These agents, including 20 special American "observers" in addition to the regular consular officers, have been working hard in French North Africa for the last 27 months to pave the way for the present military move to secure control of Morocco.

The American agents, State department sources disclosed, worked quietly among the French people in North Africa, assuring them that one day United States forces would come to help the French empire re-enter the war on the side of the Allies. The American agents urged the French in North Africa not to resist when U. S. forces appeared, and impressed on the Frenchmen, especially the military and naval officers, that France's independence and freedom could be restored only through defeat of Germany and complete destruction of the Axis armies.

Action Well Planned
Secretary of State Cordell Hull disclosed that one of the chief reasons why the United States has maintained diplomatic relations with the pro-Axis Vichy regime was to enable the American diplomatic agents in North Africa to be ready for the day when the United States would take action.

APPLE PIES FOR ALL FOLLOWING TRUCK COLLISION

VALPARISO, Ind., Nov. 9—Apple pies galore were on the menus of many homes near here today as the result of a collision which overturned two trucks, each loaded with apples.

Ten tons of apples were scattered here and there over the highway and by the side of the road. A crowd soon gathered and practically everybody helped himself.

Some of the apples were bruised and so was the driver of one of the trucks. The other driver escaped unharmed.

Points Where Americans Land in North Africa

PRINCIPAL points where American troops have landed and are attacking in French North Africa are shown on the above map. Tens of thousands of American soldiers, supported by naval and air forces, have established beachheads and advanced inland at numerous points along the Atlantic and Mediterranean coasts. Vichy French naval bases, including Toulon, France, where the main French fleet is reported to be, are indicated.

GERMAN CHIEF SCORNFUL OF U.S.

"Always Has Last Word" Says Ranting Leader Of German Nazis

LONDON, Nov. 9—Adolf Hitler was on record today before the United Nations and his axis partners and satellites as all set for "a fight to a decision."

"There can be no question of compromise or peace terms," he told a cheering audience of old-time Nazis last night in Munich, in the famous beer hall from which he launched his first and abortive putsch for power just 19 years ago today.

"There will be no repetition of 1918," he thundered. "The Kaiser capitulated, but I will never capitulate."

"Once it was the Kaiser, but now I am here. I'm an enemy who does not even think the word 'capitulation.' Since I was a boy, I have always had the last word."

Hitler was scornful over the American landings in North Africa.

"When today Roosevelt launches an attack in North Africa, under the pretext of protecting it against Germany and Italy, we need not waste words about the lies of this scoundrel," he ranted. "The decisive word will certainly not be spoken by Herr Roosevelt. You may be sure of that."

Hitler assured his hearers that "we shall prepare all counterblows, as always, and as thoroughly. They will come, as always, in due time," he added. Then he told his audience, "you may have full confidence in German leadership and the German army. They will do all there is to do."

DARLAN MAY BE PRISONER, AXIS CIRCLES FEAR

LONDON, Nov. 9—Fears were voiced in axis circles today that Admiral Jean Francois Darlan, chief of French defense forces, and the commander of French forces in North Africa, Gen. Alphonse Juin, may have been captured by American forces.

The German radio quoted a Vichy report in which it was said that the fate of Admiral Darlan and General Juin "still was uncertain."

Informed Vichy circles, it was added, said there was "a possibility both could still avoid capture."

Darlan was on an inspection tour of North Africa when the Americans struck. General Juin negotiated the surrender of the city of Algiers with American Major General Charles W. Ryder.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

Adolph Menjou, who speaks French, will do a shortwave propaganda broadcast for the OWI in Turkish.

Menjou says "they will write it out phonetically for me."

The Turks should be impressed no end.

We already have F. H. La Guardia broadcasting to Italy in Italian which the Italians describe as "atrocious."

This thing has great possibilities.

Pat O'Brien broadcasting in Russian undoubtedly would win us many new friends in Moscow.

Bob Hope speaking liquid Japanese—phonetically—might be expected to rock the throne of Hirohito.

We tried for two months to get a sample script of the kind of propaganda that was being sent over the short-waves.

We got the run-around.

Thought for the day: What are the wild waves saying?

JOINT WAR ACT BOARD URGED

Bi-Partisan Move Launched In Senate For Study Of Law Problems

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—A bi-partisan movement for creation of a joint congressional committee on war problems was launched in the Senate today, with indications that the issue will become one of the most important facing Congress within the next two months.

Sens. Francis Maloney (D) Conn., and Arthur H. Vandenberg (R) Mich., joined hands in an effort to persuade Congress to adopt the Maloney resolution setting up a joint committee.

A similar proposal by Rep. Everett Dirksen (R) Ill., is pending in the House, and both Senate Republican Leader Charles McNary and House Republican Chief Joseph Martin declared for the principle of a congressional committee to keep in touch with the war situation.

Maloney, who may ask the Senate to act this week, explained that the committee would not seek to dictate strategy of the war.

The group could, he said, obtain information about the war, advise as to legislative and similar problems and generally act as a representative of the people.

"Unless and until we provide for such a committee as is set forth in this resolution, Congress cannot make its proper contribution to the war effort," said Maloney.

Vandenberg, who six months ago urged the creation of such a committee, declared his support for the Maloney resolution. He, too, explained that the committee would avoid attempting to dictate strategy of the war—a charge (Continued on Page Eight)

HOUSE GATHERS FOR TEST VOTE ON TEEN DRAFT

Invasion Of Africa Expected To Have Profound Effect On Ultimate Result

SENATE VERSION RAPPED

Leaders Confident Lower Branch Will Knock Out Year's Training Clause

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—Aided by heavy Republican support, the administration scored a victory today in the house when members declined to instruct conferees to accept a Senate amendment requiring that 18 and 19 year old youths be given a year of training before being sent into action. The vote was 178 to 40.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—With America's invasion of North Africa expected to have a profound effect on the ultimate outcome, the House reconvenes today for a test vote on the Senate proposal to require a year of training for 18 and 19-year old draftees before they can be put on active combat duty.

Rep. Rankin (D) Miss., has given notice that he will move that the House accept the Senate version of the legislation, thus clearing the way for a showdown on the controversial issue.

The bill was passed by the House three weeks ago without the training limitation in the measure. However, the Senate subsequently adopted a provision sponsored by Sen. Lee O'Daniel (D) Tex., requiring that no youth under 20 be sent into actual combat without a preliminary training of at least 12 months.

PETAIN'S REPLY TO ROOSEVELT IS DEFENSE PLEDGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—Marshal Henri Petain's answer to President Roosevelt's assurance that the invasion of French North Africa was aimed at the "liberation" of France today was a pledge to "defend ourselves."

The communications between Mr. Roosevelt and the French Chief of State were made public by the White House along with presidential letters to Gen. Franco, head of Spain and President Carmona of Portugal, assuring them that the American action in no way should be construed as a threat to their respective countries.

Great Britain, it was disclosed by the War department, also assured Spain and Portugal that the North African invasion did not menace them.

The letters from President Roosevelt were delivered simultaneously with the American invasion. In his communication to Petain, Mr. Roosevelt said his "anger and sympathy" for France under the German yoke grows with every passing day and added that this government possesses accurate information that the axis intended to occupy French North Africa with military force in order that "they may execute their schemes of domination and conquest over the whole of that continent."

Replying, Petain said he had learned with "stupor and sadness" of the American "aggression." Pointing out that he always declared that he would defend the French empire if it were attacked, he added:

"You should know that I would keep my word. France and her honor are at stake. We are attacked; we shall defend ourselves; this is the order I am giving."

Second Front Campaign Proceeds According to Plan, Washington Says

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—America's second front offensive against Germany and Italy today proceeded "according to plan" as latest battle reports stated that American forces had occupied several important airfields in the invaded French North African area.

Front line dispatches stated that the important Mediterranean port of Algiers had surrendered after a brief battle and that Americans seized two vital airbases near the city and a third near Oran.

Apparently the American forces were making headway in the Algiers and Oran areas but indications pointed to a stiff battle on the important Atlantic coast of Casablanca.

Detailed news from the new fighting front was scarce, but meager reports pointed out the United States forces were gaining ground in a three-pronged offensive against Vichy French territory on the Atlantic coast as well as in the Mediterranean theatre.

Landings Continue
"Landings by United States forces on the Atlantic and Mediterranean coasts are proceeding according to plan," the War department's latest communique said.

"Several important airfields have been occupied by the United States Army Air Forces and the Royal Air Force. Ranger units are participating in the operation."

The War department added that American naval forces are in control of the situation despite the fact that two small ships were damaged in action around Oran and one American transport was torpedoed and disabled.

"During yesterday, one of our transports was torpedoed and disabled," the department said. "Our troops aboard, under a commander who refused to be idle during the operation, took up their light landing craft and continued toward their objective 120 miles away, landing there this morning."

Resistance Spotty
The French attitude was indicated by the fact that in some areas there was little resistance to the American invasion.

"Lack of resistance encountered at most of the beaches indicated that the French armed forces in North Africa had no desire to oppose the entries of American troops into this territory," the War department said.

"The forces that landed during the night and the early hours of this morning are advancing rapidly, and other landings continue. Resistance appears to have been confined mainly to Navy and coast defense artillery. Owing to the confused nature of the fighting, precise results are not known."

The War department stressed, however, that American naval forces were in control of the situation and preliminary reports indicated that U. S. losses were light.

While size of the American invasion force was not disclosed officially, developments left no doubt that it was adequate for the task assigned to it.

Domination of the Casablanca theatre by the United Nations forces would prove a severe blow to the axis, especially to the African theatre.

GIRAUD URGES FRENCH TO AID AMERICAN ARMY

LONDON, Nov. 9—The Americans in Africa today could count on their side one of the most respected and picturesque figures in the French army—General Henri Giraud, twice captured by the Germans, twice escaped, and friend of many officers and men of the first A. E. F.

The tall 63-year old general, who outwitted the Kaiser's men in the last war by disguising himself as a Belgian workman and his Hitlerite captives in this war by posing as an itinerant peasant and crossing Germany and Switzerland on foot back to France, popped up suddenly in Algeria yesterday.

Stepping to a microphone concealed carefully by Fighting French supporters, the grizzled warrior launched a vibrant broadcast appeal to all French forces in North Africa to line up with the Americans against the axis.

"For the last two years," he said, "we have scrupulously observed the terms of the armistice, in spite of the repeated violations by our enemies."

"Today Germany and Italy want to occupy North Africa. America forestalls them, and assures us of her loyal and disinterested support."

"This is our chance of revival," he emphasized.

"We can not neglect this opportunity of recovery. I take my action as one of you. I ask you to trust me as I trust you. We have but one passion—France—and our only aim is victory."

The speech, recorded in London by Reuters, was maintained to be genuine by both Fighting French headquarters and by diplomatic circles. (Vichy reports had attempted to say the broadcast must have been made from outside North Africa, that someone had impersonated the general, or that a disc had been used instead of his own voice.)

DEATH FOR SPY
HAVANA, Nov. 9—President Fulgencio Batista of Cuba has issued a decree confirming the death sentence imposed on the convicted Nazi spy, Heinz August Luning, and ordering his execution.

The sentence is due to be carried out by a firing squad, some time before Wednesday, according to reports from the Ministry of Justice.

"We can not neglect this opportunity of recovery. I take my action as one of you. I ask you to trust me as I trust you. We have but one passion—France—and our only aim is victory."

The speech, recorded in London by Reuters, was maintained to be genuine by both Fighting French headquarters and by diplomatic circles. (Vichy reports had attempted to say the broadcast must have been made from outside North Africa, that someone had impersonated the general, or that a disc had been used instead of his own voice.)

SATURDAY NIGHT DEADLINE FOR CASH CAMPAIGN

Muhlenberg And Pickaway Townships Succeed In Local Drives

TOTAL STANDS AT $48,000

Trustees Start Allocating Funds To Various Organizations

Community Chest campaign in Pickaway county started to move into its final week Monday with Chairman Frank Fischer and his board of trustees fixing next Saturday night, November 14, as the deadline for the organization's drive to collect $48,000.

The chairman told trustees at their Sunday meeting in Farm Bureau offices that Muhlenberg and Pickaway townships had gone over the top in their campaigns, the former collecting $1,315 and the latter $2,195. Addition of these two townships boosts the total of townships reaching assigned figures to nine, Deer Creek, Jackson, Madison, Perry, Walnut, Wayne and Circleville townships having already gone over the top.

Mr. Fischer said that the total collected and pledged up to Sunday afternoon approached $48,000, trustees still needing more than $2,000 during the next week to reach their goal.

With conclusion of the eight-week campaign in sight, trustees have started to allocate funds to various organizations which are requesting that their programs be financed. Five thousand dollars was voted Sunday to the United Service Organizations' Spring program. The USO plays a major role in areas throughout the nation in the interest of boys in service, providing entertainment and recreation of much value to the soldiers.

A check for $750 to finance Boy Scout work in the county has been approved for the Central Ohio Area Council, and another check for $600 has been voted for the Circleville Benevolent association.

Definite program for the week's activities has been worked out by the Chest trustees to bring the campaign to a successful conclusion.

YOUTH WOUNDED IN ACCIDENTAL RIFLE DISCHARGE

Raymond Gale Alkire, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Alkire of Five Points, was shot through the leg Saturday at 4:30 p. m. in an accident which happened less than half a mile from the Monroe township village.

The Alkire youth was playing with Allen and Dickie Ruse, 14 and 13, respectively; Robert Riley, 15; William Riley, 9, and Donald Terfingler, 10, when the accident happened.

The elder Ruse youth was carrying a .22 calibre rifle when he and young Alkire leaped across a small creek. As they landed across the water the rifle was discharged, a .22 long bullet passing through the Alkire boy's left leg, just below the knee cap.

The boys told sheriff's deputies that they had been told that the rabbit season had started, and then had gone hunting.

Young Alkire was taken to the home of his aunt, Mrs. Marie Walters, Five Points, where he remained overnight before being removed home.

Sheriff's deputies said that they had been called to Five Points several times by persons who claimed that the Ruse youths were shooting their rifle promiscuously. Two weeks ago village residents said one of the boys shot holes in a sack of chicken feed which a village girl was carrying from a store to her home. Several warnings to the mother of the Ruse boys had brought promises that they would not be permitted to use the rifle again.

TRUCKERS NEED CERTIFICATES OF WAR NECESSITY

Operators of trucks, busses, and taxis must have their Certificates of War Necessity before applying to the local War Price and Rationing Board for their mileage rations, George McDowell, chairman of the Board, declared today.

"The Certificates of War Necessity, issued by the Office of Defense Transportation, form the basis for our issuance of Transportation Rations to these commercial vehicles," said Mr. McDowell. "When the applicants come to the Board they must bring with them these Certificates, together with properly executed application for a mileage ration."

Each War Necessity Certificate states the number of miles the vehicle for which the Certificate is issued will be allowed to travel during a three-month period. The Certificate also states the number of gallons of gasoline needed to cover this mileage.

The OPA Rationing Board will determine the amount of Transportation Rations to be issued for the vehicle on the basis of mileage allowed on the Certificate. In no case is the Board permitted to allow more gasoline than is stipulated on the Certificate.

In the eastern gasoline-rationed area the transport (T) Rations take the place of the Service (S) Rations. All outstanding S coupons will become invalid at 12:01 a. m., November 21. The T books will be tailored to the allowable mileage by tearing out coupons.

4. The feeling that Congress had become too much of a rubber stamp for the President.

RUBBER STAMP CONGRESS

This latter view has been reverberating all over the country, according to reports brought back to Washington. People feel that what the Government needs is a good strong Congress to keep an eye on things, in other words a reversion to the Founding Fathers' original idea of checks and balances.

A lot of people felt that with a few more Republicans in Congress there would be more scrutiny of the way the war was going. They have resented the manner in which the Democrats accepted every Roosevelt recommendation sent to Capitol Hill, including the nomination of a Boss Hague friend to be New Jersey judge, and the friends of Harry Hopkins to be brigadier generals.

Note: Perhaps even more than the public realizes, Congress has abdicated. For instance, one of the most sacred prerogatives of Congress is the appropriation of money. But today, after Congress appropriated for a certain government agency, the Budget Bureau steps in and orders those funds not to be spent. This is a complete violation of Congressional rights, but the Executive branch has got away with it for months.

"COTTON ED" SMITH

A novel suggestion on how Senatorial eloquence might be improved for the war effort was offered by South Carolina's elder, anti-Roosevelt Senator, "Cotton Ed" Smith, during debate on the 18-19 draft bill.

His mustaches bristling, "Cotton Ed" charged that efforts to defeat an amendment prohibiting 18-year-old inductees from being sent overseas until they have one year's training, were inspired by the White House.

"We had just as well adjourn and go home if we must take the mandate of a band at the other end of the Avenue," Smith shouted, adding, amid gales of laughter, "I thought we cooperated, but we 'co' and they 'operate.'"

Warning to his subject, the garrulous South Carolinian asserted that government agencies spent a great part of their time drafting orders for Congressional "rubber stamps to say 'Yes, sir, to.'"

FOUR TEEN AGE BOYS HELD AS CAR PILFERERS

Police Chief W. F. McCrady said Monday that police investigation Saturday night and arrest of four teen age boys at 1:30 a. m. Sunday had cleared up many instances of petty thievery from stores and from automobiles parked in the Circleville business district. The chief said that all four boys had admitted taking food and clothing from automobiles during the last several weeks.

At the time of the arrest the boys were carrying some items they had taken from Circleville stores during the evening.

The chief said the boys, who have been ordered into juvenile court, were Richard and Donald Burke, 14 and 13, respectively, of 741 South Scioto street; Clarence Seyfang, 15, of 903 South Scioto street, and Joe Bailey, 13, of 830 Maplewood avenue.

HISTORY REPEATS FOR EX SOLDIER AT LANCASTER

If an armistice should happen to take place Wednesday in World War II, history will have repeated itself for William E. Moore, 45, of Lancaster, a former resident of Circleville.

Just 24 years ago Friday, November 6, 1918, Moore, then a 21-year-old Pickaway county farm youth, appeared at the county courthouse to take his physical examination for Army induction. On November 20 of that year he was to have been inducted into service in World War I—but the war ended November 11.

Last Friday, Moore, who is unmarried, went to Columbus from Lancaster to take his physical examination for service. He was accepted and was ordered to report November 20 at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., the date being the same assigned him 24 years ago.

Now, an Armistice is needed, and everything will be working out well for Mr. Moore.

RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGED

Emory Keeton, 32, of Kingston, was charged Monday in Mayor Harold Brown's court in Chillicothe with reckless operation of his automobile following a collision Saturday in Chillicothe. According to police, Keeton failed to stop at a street intersection. The Kingston man's car collided with one driven by Harvey Seymour of Chillicothe. Several persons in the two cars were shaken up, but no one suffered serious injury.

for the New York governorship, he pulled out. However, with 400,000 votes, the Labor Party indefinitely holds the balance of power in New York City. Some Democrats think that the November 3 set-back was a blessing in disguise—the only thing that could wake FDR up.

KITCHEN ECONOMICS

A visiting business man in Washington phoned an official of the Bureau of Economic Warfare, on Q street. The secretary at the other end of the line said, "Just a minute, I'll see if he's in."

Then the visitor heard her say to another girl, "Where is he—in the bedroom? Or did he go to the kitchen?"

The visitor was puzzled. What kind of government office was this? The explanation came when later he visited the BEW offices—in a converted apartment house, where "bedrooms" and "kitchens" have become offices.

"C" GAS CARDS TO SHOW WHY ISSUE IS MADE

If you are fortunate enough to obtain a "C" gasoline rationing book which will entitle you to drive more than 470 miles a month, a sticker will be placed on the window of your automobile telling just why you rated a "C" card. And you had better use your automobile for just what that sticker calls for, or your neighbor will very likely have something to say to rationing officials.

Purposes for which "C" rations are permitted will be listed on each sticker, and local ration boards will place a check mark beside the purpose for which each sticker was granted. Motorists, in turn, must display a sticker for the most liberal type of ration book allowed them.

The Office of Price Administration said purposes for which "C" cards may be issued include official government or Red Cross business; school official traveling to and from school; transportation of four or more persons to school; transportation of U. S. Mail; wholesale newspaper delivery; carrying newspaper photographic equipment; physicians, surgeons, veterinarians; public health nurses or internes; embalmers; ministers, priests or rabbis; transportation of farm workers, marine workers, or farm materials; essential hospital, utility or war workers; labor conciliator; recruiting and training of workers; construction, repair and maintenance services of production specialists; members of armed forces to duty; telegraph delivery; essential scrap agents.

FOUR TEEN AGE BOYS HELD AS CAR PILFERERS

Police Chief W. F. McCrady said Monday that police investigation Saturday night and arrest of four teen age boys at 1:30 a. m. Sunday had cleared up many instances of petty theft from stores and from automobiles parked in the Circleville business district. The chief said that all four boys had admitted taking food and clothing from automobiles during the last several weeks.

At the time of the arrest the boys were carrying some items they had taken from Circleville stores during the evening.

The chief said the boys, who have been ordered into juvenile court, were Richard and Donald Burke, 14 and 13, respectively, of 741 South Scioto street; Clarence Seyfang, 15, of 903 South Scioto street, and Joe Bailey, 13, of 830 Maplewood avenue.

HISTORY REPEATS FOR EX SOLDIER AT LANCASTER

If an armistice should happen to take place Wednesday in World War II, history will have repeated itself for William E. Moore, 45, of Lancaster, a former resident of Circleville.

Just 24 years ago Friday, November 6, 1918, Moore, then a 21-year-old Pickaway county farm youth, appeared at the county courthouse to take his physical examination for Army induction. On November 20 of that year he was to have been inducted into service in World War I—but the war ended November 11.

Last Friday, Moore, who is unmarried, went to Columbus from Lancaster to take his physical examination for service. He was accepted and was ordered to report November 20 at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., the date being the same assigned him 24 years ago.

Now, an Armistice is needed, and everything will be working out well for Mr. Moore.

RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGED

Emory Keeton, 32, of Kingston, was charged Monday in Mayor Harold Brown's court in Chillicothe with reckless operation of his automobile following a collision Saturday in Chillicothe. According to police, Keeton failed to stop at a street intersection. The Kingston man's car collided with one driven by Harvey Seymour of Chillicothe. Several persons in the two cars were shaken up, but no one suffered serious injury.

for the New York governorship, he pulled out. However, with 400,000 votes, the Labor Party indefinitely holds the balance of power in New York City. Some Democrats think that the November 3 set-back was a blessing in disguise—the only thing that could wake FDR up.

KITCHEN ECONOMICS

A visiting business man in Washington phoned an official of the Bureau of Economic Warfare, on Q street. The secretary at the other end of the line said, "Just a minute, I'll see if he's in."

Then the visitor heard her say to another girl, "Where is he—in the bedroom? Or did he go to the kitchen?"

The visitor was puzzled. What kind of government office was this? The explanation came when later he visited the BEW offices—in a converted apartment house, where "bedrooms" and "kitchens" have become offices.

"C" GAS CARDS TO SHOW WHY ISSUE IS MADE

If you are fortunate enough to obtain a "C" gasoline rationing book which will entitle you to drive more than 470 miles a month, a sticker will be placed on the window of your automobile telling just why you rated a "C" card. And you had better use your automobile for just what that sticker calls for, or your neighbor will very likely have something to say to rationing officials.

Purposes for which "C" rations are permitted will be listed on each sticker, and local ration boards will place a check mark beside the purpose for which each sticker was granted. Motorists, in turn, must display a sticker for the most liberal type of ration book allowed them.

The Office of Price Administration said purposes for which "C" cards may be issued include official government or Red Cross business; school official traveling to and from school; transportation of four or more persons to school; transportation of U. S. Mail; wholesale newspaper delivery; carrying newspaper photographic equipment; physicians, surgeons, veterinarians; public health nurses or internes; embalmers; ministers, priests or rabbis; transportation of farm workers, marine workers, or farm materials; essential hospital, utility or war workers; labor conciliator; recruiting and training of workers; construction, repair and maintenance services of production specialists; members of armed forces to duty; telegraph delivery; essential scrap agents.

Rabat, bottom, also has been attacked and reports said that fighting French sympathizers in the town seized the radio station there before the arrival of American forces.

DEAD MAN'S HILL—FOR 600 JAPANESE SOLDIERS

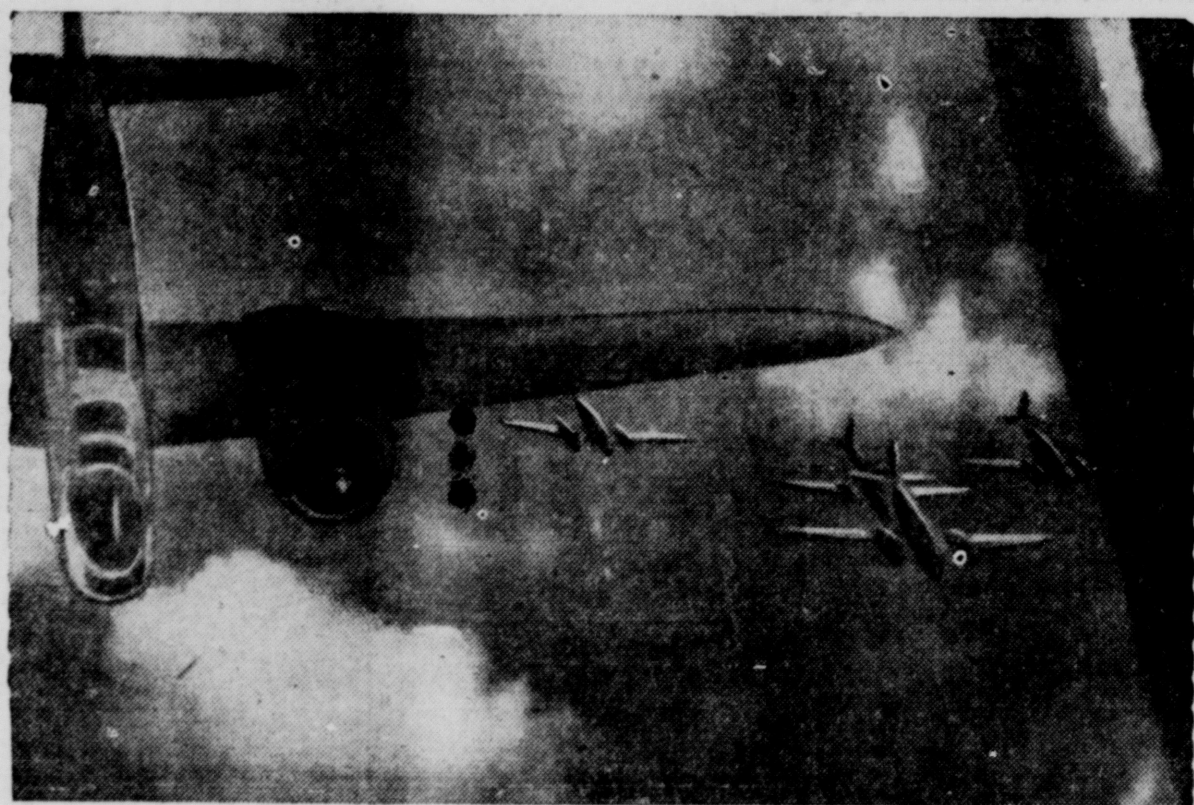

This ridge, protecting Guadalcanal's all-important Henderson Field, cost the lives of 600 Japanese in a vain attempt to dislodge United States Marines holding the position. With the exception of infiltration of the enemy, later wiped out, the Marines, supported by heavy artillery, turned back repeated thrusts of the Japs.

The Jap plane's cargo of bombs was hit by an anti-aircraft shell as the bomber came in for an attack at 20,000 feet. The plane blew apart in the sky, parts of it raining down over a wide area. Allied planes, it is reported, have virtually driven the Axis planes from the skies over Egypt. While hammering at Axis ground forces, U. S. and British fighters and bombers have been almost unopposed.

SPARE GUN SAVES FLYER'S LIFE

His habit of carrying an extra gun in the cockpit saved the life of Sgt. K. B. Taylor, above, of Preeceville, Saskatchewan, Canada. While attacking Axis shipping off Tobruk, North Africa, Taylor's turret guns jammed just as three Italian planes ganged up on him. Taylor brought into play his spare machine gun and fought off the enemy airmen.

General Ritter von Thoma (left), 2nd in command to Marshal Rommel in Africa, is shown with British Lieut. Gen. Bernard Montgomery after they had had breakfast at the British chief's desert headquarters. Von Thoma, who was captured at the start of the Allied drive, admitted that the Axis situation in the desert was critical. On the oilcloth cover on the breakfast table, they made sketches and fought over past battles between their forces. This is a radiophoto from Cairo to New York.

Here's a rare photograph from Guadalcanal—a quiet moment. Two bayoneted rifles and a piece of canvas make a sunshade for a U. S. marine as he talks to a buddy during a lull in the battle for the strategic island. A navy report from the islands states that marines and army forces killed 350 Japs and captured 12 light artillery guns, three field pieces, and 30 machine guns in a recent attack. This is an official U. S. Navy photo.

SOLDIERS

IT IS UNIVERSALLY recognized that Germans make good soldiers. It has been so from ancient times, when they fearlessly faced the Roman legions who had conquered the rest of the known world. In modern times, and especially since the days of Bismarck, the Germans have been trained militarily for political purposes. Bold fighting has been bred in them. Students in the universities, instead of playing games, fought with swords. Their ideal was a military state ruled by strong men.

They slumped after their defeat in the last big war, but under Corporal Hitler a new crop of German youth was rallied and trained for conquest as Napoleon, France's "Little Corporal," had trained French youth for similar purposes. And with them Hitler succeeded, for a period almost as long as the duration of the last German war.

He succeeded until he tackled the Russians, thinking he would smash through them easily. There he found to his amazement a breed of fighting men different from any he had known, or any the rest of the world had known. Those modernized Russians were ably led, they retreated strategically with skill and poise, and when finally ordered to stand, they held their vast line, and still hold it, like heroes.

So what? The legend of Nazi invincibility is cracked, as was the legend of Hohenzollern invincibility. Prussianism has failed twice in a generation, because both times it has met men as able as itself, with a better cause. That cruel and barbaric system will now be smashed — the civilized world hopes — permanently.

USING THE HANDICAPPED

PEOPLE are learning to reconsider assets which in ordinary times might be overlooked. One such is the amount of valuable work that can be done by men with physical handicaps. Henry Ford has long known this, and made a place for them in his organization.

Now the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation is working out a plan for using the blind and crippled. A man defective in one respect may well have other talents adequate for certain jobs, and may thus release one physically perfect for the army. To find these talents sometimes entails a good deal of work for the management, but the need justifies the effort. And such a war-time gain is likely to be carried over into times of peace.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles F. Stewart

WASHINGTON—In the midst of rapidly-changing conditions, new problems naturally arise constantly in Washington, as the seat of our whole emergency activity.

Every time a fresh one presents itself, an additional commission, board, administration, office or other executive agency is created to specialize on that particular puzzle. The capital is so full of 'em that they're difficult, even for experts, to keep track of.

As a plain case of confusion, it would be bad enough. It's worse than that, though. These set-ups overlap numerously. They disagree and conflict with each other. There are jealousies over rival claims to authority and jealousies over questions of taxation allowances to support their various pet projects.

Congress is considerably resentful also. Capitol Hill's complaint is that it's been legislatively almost completely nullified by the wartime brood of executive groups.

It's a danger to American democracy's future, according to the critical lawmakers, and what's more, they charge, it's had for our present war effort, in that it's resulting in a muddle inconsistent with our maximum efficiency. Finally, dishing out money to a multiplicity of different agencies, which ought to be merged, is represented as calculated to be unnecessarily expensive, in a campaign that'll be nearly ruinous, anyway.

Tolan's Plan
Representative John H. Tolán is chairman of a committee that's been investigating the matter for some time and today calls for a halt upon the establishment of still more commissions until a "master organization" be established to co-ordinate the recommendations of the subdivisions.

Representative Everett M. Dirksen has, indeed, actually pending in the lower congressional chamber, a resolution for a "legislative research service," as a liaison body between a lawmakers' joint committee of senators and representatives and the large family of executive set-ups.

Specifically Representative Dirksen's plan is more of a job at the government's executive branch than Representative Tolán's suggestion.

The Tolán scheme is for a master organization to be sure, but that, so far as the proposal's concerned, can be as much executive as legislative.

Representative Dirksen wants a purely legislative committee of 22 members, chosen in partnership by Capitol Hill's two houses. Besides their lawmakers' duties, Dirksen agrees that this outfit won't find much time to weigh, personally, all the advice given to 'em from executive quarters, but their "legislative research service" will consist of experts of their own selection—employed to filter executive

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

"BLUNDERING" OFFICIALS

WASHINGTON — Shortly after the Administration got word of its resounding electoral rebuff, a group of the President's staunchest supporters on Capitol Hill got together for a post mortem to see how and why it all happened. They also talked over plans by which the President could win back the waning confidence of the public, because, as one young congressman expressed it:

"Political leadership is just about as important as military leadership. You can't run a war unless you have the country behind you. And if we aren't careful we'll have a political Libya."

Chief conclusion reached at this session — and it included leaders who had sweat, bled and almost died for Roosevelt politically — was that he would have to sacrifice his "expendables."

When an army is retreating, a small force is left behind to cover the retreat and be sacrificed to the enemy. They are "expendables."

The "expendables" proposed by the Roosevelt advisers were not valuable shock troops, but the men who had been responsible for economic, political and diplomatic Pearl Harbors, the men—and women—in whom the public had lost confidence. These, they said, are the "expendables."

"Why should we ask young men to give their lives at the front," asked one Roosevelt rooster who himself has been under fire, "when old dodos in the cabinet have made blunders which are going to prolong the war. Their resignation may cause hurt feelings, but as between that and seeing boys suffer at the front, I'm for hurt feelings."

So it was agreed unanimously to put their idea up to Roosevelt, and tell him that the resignation of the Joneses, the Perkinses, the Knoxes, the Hulls, the Weinbergs, the Nelsons and the Rosenwalds was the only thing which could restore confidence. But it was not unanimously agreed as to how the idea could be sold to the President.

In fact, knowing FDR's well-known aptitude for being soft with his friends, it was even doubted whether he would listen.

REASONS FOR DEFEAT

Private estimates of election returns made for the White House by the Democratic National Committee figured on a loss of fewer than twenty House seats and only four or five Senate seats. That was why the real news was so crushing.

Since then, some of those around the White House have kept their ear closer to the ground regarding the public groundswell, and here are some of the reasons they have reported for the unexpected Republican swing.

1. Public resentment against any party or Administration which stays in office too long.
2. Lack of confidence in the war news, due to scanty and long delayed announcements by the Navy. People feel they aren't getting the truth about the war and

DIET AND HEALTH

How Allergies Keep Men Out of War Service

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

MEN WHO have been rejected for the Army and Navy on account of allergic states are apt to complain of the injustice of the system. I have just listened to a tale of woe of a young fellow who can't get in on account of sinus trouble. "How is that going to prevent me from fighting a Jap?" he inquired.

Dr. Clendingen will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Well, it does seem like a little thing, but behind there may be something that is in the nature of real disability. It is a possible indication of a general state of allergy, which has caused quite a lot of trouble already. The number of rejections for allergic conditions has only been about half of one percent of applications, but the boards are tightening up and this percentage is rising somewhat.

Army regulations state that an applicant who is found to have a chronic disease within the first six months of service shall be considered not to have incurred this in line of duty and is discharged without compensation, thus relieving the government of any further responsibility for pensions, etc.

Cases of Recurrent Attacks
The applicant who has recurrent attacks of asthma, however, may not have an attack at all during his first six months service, and manifests it only with a seasonal change, with the blooming of certain plants, such as in hay fever, or the coming into season of certain fruits or vegetables.

And nobody knows what totally unfamiliar plants in Australia, Alaska or the tropics to which he has never been exposed may give an allergic subject a bout of sinusitis or the hives.

The Canadian army learned the lesson because a number of its men broke down with emphysema under conditions of hard military drill, and in most such cases it was found that there had been a history of asthma behind it.

Therefore, the medical boards are inquiring very carefully into the history of selectees for attacks of hives, asthma, etc. More careful examination of the upper respiratory apparatus, with a view to detecting allergic possibilities, are now being made. Sinus trouble, or polyps, are presumptive evidence of the allergic state. Francis found nasal abnormalities in 14 per cent of 412 cases of asthma.

Condition of Spine and Back

The condition of the spine and back, curiously enough, is also an indication of the allergic state. Those who have had asthma in childhood nearly always have a certain amount of round shoulders and rounding of the back, and the orthopedic surgeons are asked to pay special attention to this.

The history is most carefully inquired into for asthma, hives, eczema and sinusitis. All this must be evaluated. Not every candidate with the allergic state is rejected. Most of them can be given limited duty.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mrs. E. B.:—Would you advise a person recently cured of tuberculosis to move to a Western climate? Does a person who remains in Michigan have a chance to gain permanent health after tuberculosis?

Answer: Climate has little effect on curing tuberculosis—far less than is believed by the average person. It is perfectly possible to gain permanent health after being cured of tuberculosis in Michigan. It is better for a tuberculous patient to remain in the climate where he was cured.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendingen has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. ## Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Ira C. Fisher, Walnut township, and T. M. Glick, Circleville township, were elected delegates to the annual Ohio Farm Bureau Federation meeting to be in Columbus November 18 and 19.

Pickaway county was 10th in the nation in the production of sweet corn. The rating was revealed in a survey released by the department of agriculture of the 50 leading sweet corn production counties of the United States.

Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Bales were to leave November 16 for a motor trip to Mexico. They planned to be gone four months.

10 YEARS AGO

Miss Ann Ryan, 211 East High street, was discharged from Berger hospital after undergoing treatment for injuries she suffered when a ledger fell on her at the Citizens Telephone Co. where she was employed.

Only members of the immediate families of the bride and groom were present at the marriage of Miss Falth Chandler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Chandler of Columbus, to Mr. Lawrence U. Jeffries, of Lancaster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jeffries of Circleville which was solemnized in St. Catherine's rectory, Bexley. The Rev. Fr. Robert Coburn officiated.

Injuries she suffered when struck by an automobile during Pumpkin Show were fatal to Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Goff, 76, mother of Mrs. Mary G. Morris, county recorder.

25 YEARS AGO

The Rev. Joseph Stittler of Delaware, son-in-law of William Vieth of Circleville, was extended a call to the pastorate of St. Peter's Lutheran church of Lancaster.

The eightieth birthday anniversary of William H. Howell was celebrated with a family, reunion and dinner at the family home on East Franklin street. The birthday cake was decorated in small flags and a shield bearing the dates 1837, 1917 and the number of his regiment in the Civil War.

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE

MARY VIEWED herself in the washroom mirror with a critical, nervous eye. She hoped she looked all right. Even the mirror's reassuring reflection left her uncertain. She rearranged the shining red waves of her hair, re-touched her lips. She was thankful she had worn the new chic black suit. Except for the large green parrot lapel pin, she looked every inch a siren, she reflected humorously. Too bad she hadn't practiced more the art of luring men. How did she know she was to learn the art of pick-up at the request of the F. B. I.?

Ken had called her and Fran Mata Harris that morning. That's what she was—a California Mata Hari!

A couple of the personnel girls came through the swinging door behind her. Jane said, "Haven't you been to lunch yet?"

"No. I'm eating late today," Mary picked up her purse and tucked comb and compact away. "Goah, bet you're starved." The other girl was all friendly sympathy.

If they knew what little appetite she had tonight, Mary thought wryly, hurrying across the grounds toward the cafeteria. Nervously, she went over the instructions Danver had given her so carefully that afternoon.

The lunchroom was less crowded than she was used to seeing it. She picked up her tray and moved it along the counter, absently reaching for a sandwich, ordering coffee. But her gaze darted about in surreptitious glances.

Not until she had reached the cashier and was waiting for her check did her desperate eyes focus on her victim. There he sat, in his mechanic's coveralls, eating a full-sized dinner. She picked up her tray and started casually in a circuitous route toward his table. Her heart was beating loudly. "Steady," she thought, "steady's the password. Joe Banks, here I come!"

She paused by his table, looked around uncertainly, and as his eyes raised to notice her, glanced at him with a start of recognition, then rested her tray on his table.

"Hello," she said. Her voice quavered slightly. To cover this, she widened her eyes at him and tried a simpering smirk.

She was weak with relief when she saw his broad, unsuspecting grin. He was plainly observing that this red-haired gal was quite a dish. "Howrya?" He chewed his food with pleased vigor, looking at her alertly and hopefully.

"Just looking for an empty table," Mary murmured. "This tray's heavy."

His smile grew broad with satisfaction. "Well, why don'tcha unload it?" he invited.

The first step was taken. Mary, facing him across the small table, poured cream into her coffee and then picked up her sandwich. She'd have to make a pretense of eating.

Joe Banks was not neglecting his heaped plate. He ate voraciously, and grinned at her. He was not a talkative man, during meals. Mary wondered as she chattered emptily if this coarse, but friendly fellow could possibly be connected, even as a stooge, with a treacherous sabotage ring!

"Hope you got an easier job than I have," Mary worked the question into her careless talk with a humorous whine.

"Sure, it's all right," Joe Banks mumbled happily. "Kinda dull—don't see nothin'." He added a little quickly, "I mean—it's kinda monotonous. But what the heck. It's good money. Ain't that how you feel?"

Mary trailed her sandwich around her plate and let her mouth droop in pensive thought. "Oh, I guess so. Still—" She sighed loudly and sipped her coffee. "It's pretty long and tedious sometimes."

He worked a half a slice of bread into his mouth and chewed it while he watched Mary with an appraising, genial eye. "Your boy friend ought to come in handy there."

"Yeah?" Mary drawled sarcastically. "He's in New Zealand!"

"He is, huh?" Joe Banks' chewing now was growing in vigor and confidence. "You don't say! Little girl's all alone, eh?"

"Oh, I have an apartment—with a roommate. I been thinking of moving into a boarding house, though, or maybe a hotel." She looked at him, appealing for advice. She could almost see his slow mind at work, planning for himself.

"Naw. I'd keep the apartment," he said heavily. "Hotels are lousy. I know, I live in one."

Mary went back to the personnel office feeling light-headed but happy. She slipped a card into her typewriter and wrote her report: "Joe Banks—Job okay, but dull. Don't see much. Lives in hotel. Has no car. Likes to work with friends. Will see me tomorrow night at lunch."

She folded it and took it to Connie, who slipped it into an inter-office envelope, sealed it and sent it to Danver. In an hour, Connie stopped by Mary's desk with an answer . . . detailed instructions for her luncheon conversation the following night. Find out about his friends, discuss a date with him if necessary to discover what nights he does not have free. Mary read it carefully and then disposed of the paper, as Danver had commanded. She was excited, thrilled. The detailed instructions proved to her that she had carried out the first step of her assignment successfully. This was the most fascinating thing she had ever undertaken. Now, if she could only carry on tomorrow night! She had, she thought, played her role of dumb siren pretty well. She felt confident he'd be waiting for her in the lunchroom.

But she underestimated herself. As she walked with Jane out of the building that night, a man detached himself from the shadows of the tunnel and came toward them. It was Joe Banks! He hailed Mary with a rough but comradely shout. She introduced him to an amused Jane as they walked on toward the street.

"Look," Joe Banks muttered. "I've got a date to play a couple rounds of poker, but I might be able to drop around to your apartment later in the evening, if it looks like a long evening to ya."

Mary hesitated, frightened, uncertain. Should she let him know where she lived? Or should she wait for definite orders from Danver? And, as she tried wildly to make up her mind, a green sedan pulled up at the curb and honked.

Joe Banks gave a startled look and plunged after it. "Tomorrow night," he called back. "Can't wait now."

Jane was laughing heartily. "You should have squelched him hard, Mary. The big palooka!"

But Mary wasn't listening. She had something more important to do. She was repeating desperately to herself the number of the license of the green sedan!

SOLDIERS

IT IS UNIVERSALLY recognized that Germans make good soldiers. It has been so from ancient times, when they fearlessly faced the Roman legions who had conquered the rest of the known world. In modern times, and especially since the days of Bismarck, the Germans have been trained militarily for political purposes. Bold fighting has been bred in them. Students in the universities, instead of playing games, fought with swords. Their ideal was a military state ruled by strong men.

They slumped after their defeat in the last big war, but under Corporal Hitler a new crop of German youth was rallied and trained for conquest as Napoleon, France's "Little Corporal," had trained French youth for similar purposes. And with them Hitler succeeded, for a period almost as long as the duration of the last German war.

He succeeded until he tackled the Russians, thinking he would smash through them easily. There he found to his amazement a breed of fighting men different from any he had known, or any the rest of the world had known. Those modernized Russians were ably led, they retreated strategically with skill and poise, and when finally ordered to stand, they held their vast line, and still hold it, like heroes.

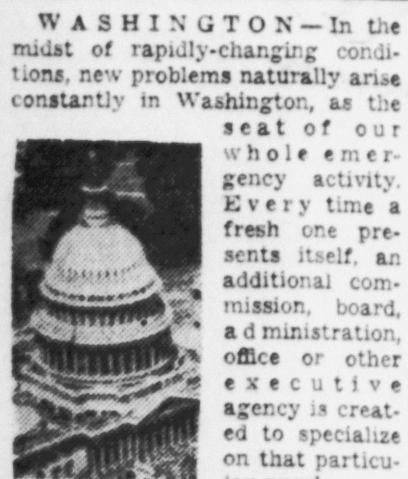

So what? The legend of Nazi invincibility is cracked, as was the legend of Hohenzollern invincibility. Prussianism has failed twice in a generation, because both times it has met men as able as itself, with a better cause. That cruel and barbaric system will now be smashed — the civilized world hopes — permanently.

USING THE HANDICAPPED

PEOPLE are learning to reconsider assets which in ordinary times might be overlooked. One such is the amount of valuable work that can be done by men with physical handicaps. Henry Ford has long known this, and made a place for them in his organization.

Now the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation is working out a plan for using the blind and crippled. A man defective in one respect may well have other talents adequate for certain jobs, and may thus release one physically perfect for the army. To find these talents sometimes entails a good deal of work for the management, but the need justifies the effort. And such a war-time gain is likely to be carried over into times of peace.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

so full of them that they're difficult, even for experts, to keep track of.

As a plain case of confusion, it would be bad enough. It's worse than that, though. These set-ups overlap numerously. They disagree and conflict with each other. There are jealousies between 'em—jealousies over rival claims to authority and jealousies over questions of taxation allowances to support their various pet projects. Congress is considerably resentful also. Capitol Hill's complaint is that it's being legislatively almost completely nullified by the wartime brood of executive groups. It's a danger to American democracy's future, according to the critical lawmakers, and what's more, they charge, it's bad for our present war effort, in that it's resulting in a muddle inconsistent with our maximum efficiency. Finally, dishing out money to a multiplicity of different agencies, which ought to be merged, is represented as calculated to be unnecessarily expensive, in a campaign that'll be nearly ruinous, anyway.

Tolan's Plan

Representative John H. Toland is chairman of a committee that's been investigating the matter for some time and today calls for a halt upon the establishment of still more commissions until a "master organization" has been established to coordinate the recommendations of the subdivisions.

Representative Everett M. Dirksen has, indeed, actually pending in the lower congressional chamber, a resolution for a "legislative research service," as a liaison body between a lawmakers' joint committee of senators and representatives and the large family of executive set-ups.

Specifically Representative Dirksen's plan is more of a job at the government's executive branch than Representative Toland's suggestion. The Toland scheme is for a master organization, to be sure, but that, so far as the proposals concerned, can be as much executive as legislative. Dirksen's plan, on the other hand, is to have a purely legislative committee of 22 members, chosen in partnership by Capitol Hill's two houses. Besides their lawmakers' duties, Dirksen agrees that this outfit won't find much time to weigh, personally, all the advice given to 'em from executive quarters, but their "legislative research service" will consist of experts of their own selection—employed to filter executive

By DREW PEARSON

"BLUNDERING" OFFICIALS

WASHINGTON — Shortly after the Administration got word of its resounding electoral rebuff, a group of the President's staunchest supporters on Capitol Hill got together for a post mortem to see how and why it all happened. They also talked over plans by which the President could win back the waning confidence of the public, because, as one young congressman expressed it:

"Political leadership is just about as important as military leadership. You can't run a war unless you have the country behind you. And if we aren't careful we'll have a political Libya."

Chief conclusion reached at this session — and it included leaders who had sweat, bled and almost died for Roosevelt politically — was that he would have to sacrifice his "expendables."

When an army is retreating, a small force is left behind to cover the retreat and be sacrificed to the enemy. They are "expendables."

The "expendables" proposed by the Roosevelt advisers were not valuable shock troops, but the men who had been responsible for economic, political and diplomatic Pearl Harbors, the men—and women—in whom the public had lost confidence. These, they said, are the "expendables."

"Why should we ask young men to give their lives at the front," asked one Roosevelt rooster who himself has been under fire, "when old dodos in the cabinet have made blunders which are going to prolong the war. Their resignation may cause hurt feelings, but as between that and seeing boys suffer at the front, I'm for hurt feelings."

So it was agreed unanimously to put their idea up to Roosevelt, and tell him that the resignation of the Joneses, the Perkinses, the Knoxes, the Hulls, the Weinbergs, the Nelsons and the Rosenwalds was the only thing which could restore confidence. But it was not unanimously agreed as to how the idea could be sold to the President.

In fact, knowing FDR's well-known aptitude for being soft with his friends, it was even doubted whether he would listen.

REASONS FOR DEFEAT

Private estimates of election returns made for the White House by the Democratic National Committee figured on a loss of fewer than twenty House seats and only four or five Senate seats. That was why the real news was so crushing.

Since then, some of those around the White House have kept their ear closer to the ground regarding the public groundswell, and here are some of the reasons they have reported for the unexpected Republican swing.

1. Public resentment against any party or Administration which stays in office too long.

2. Lack of confidence in the war news, due to scanty and long delayed announcements by the Navy. People feel they aren't getting the truth about the war and

How Allergies Keep Men Out of War Service

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

MEN who have been rejected for the Army and Navy on account of allergic states are apt to complain of the injustice of the system. I have just listened to a tale of woe of a young fellow who can't get in on account of sinus trouble. "How is that going to prevent me from fighting a Jap?" he inquires.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Well, it does seem like a little thing, but behind there may be something that is in the nature of real disability. It is a possible indication of a general state of allergy, which has caused quite a lot of trouble already. The number of rejections for allergic conditions has only been about half of one per cent of applications, but the rejections are tightening up and this percentage is rising somewhat.

Army regulations state that an applicant who is found to have a chronic disease within the first six months of service shall be considered not to have incurred this in line of duty and is discharged without compensation, thus relieving the government of any further responsibility for pensions, etc.

Cases of Recurrent Attacks
The applicant who has recurrent attacks of asthma, however, may not have an attack at all during his first six months service, and manifests it only with a seasonal change, with the blooming of certain plants, such as in hay fever, or the coming into season of certain fruits or vegetables. And nobody knows what totally unfamiliar plants in Australia, Alaska or the tropics to which he has never been exposed may give an allergic subject a bout of sinusitis or the hives.

The Canadian army learned the lesson because a number of its men broke down with emphysema under conditions of hard military drill, and in most such cases it was found that there had been a history of asthma behind it.

Therefore, the medical boards are inquiring very carefully into the history of selectees for attacks of hives, asthma, etc. More careful examination of the upper respiratory apparatus, with a view to detecting allergic possibilities, are now being made. Sinus trouble, or polyps, are presumptive evidence of the allergic state. Francis found nasal abnormalities in 14 per cent of 412 cases of asthma.

Condition of Spine and Back

The condition of the spine and back, curiously enough, is also an indication of the allergic state. Those who have had asthma in childhood nearly always have a certain amount of round shoulders and rounding of the back, and the orthopedic surgeons are asked to pay special attention to this. The history is most carefully inquired into for asthma, hives, eczema and sinusitis. All this must be evaluated. Not every candidate with the allergic state is rejected. Most of them can be given limited duty.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mrs. E. B.—Would you advise a person recently cured of tuberculosis to move to a Western climate? Does a person who remains in Michigan have a chance to gain permanent health after tuberculosis?

Answer: Climate has little effect on curing tuberculosis—far less than is believed by the average person. It is perfectly possible to gain permanent health after being cured of tuberculosis in Michigan. It is better for a tuberculous patient to remain in the climate where he was cured.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. ## Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Ira C. Fisher, Walnut township, and T. M. Glick, Circleville township, were elected delegates to the annual Ohio Farm Bureau Federation meeting to be in Columbus November 18 and 19.

Pickaway county was 10th in the nation in the production of sweet corn. The rating was revealed in a survey released by the department of agriculture of the 50 leading sweet corn production counties of the United States.

Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Bales were to leave November 16 for a motor trip to Mexico. They planned to be gone four months.

10 YEARS AGO

Miss Ann Ryan, 211 East High street, was discharged from Bergstrom hospital after undergoing treatment for injuries she suffered when a ledger fell on her at the Citizens Telephone Co. where she was employed.

Only members of the immediate families of the bride and bridegroom were present at the marriage of Miss Faith Chandler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Chandler of Columbus, to Mr. Lawrence U. Jeffries, of Lancaster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jeffries of Circleville which was solemnized in St. Catherine's rectory, Bexley. The Rev. Fr. Robert Coburn officiated.

Injuries she suffered when struck by an automobile during Pumpkin Show week were fatal to Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Goff, 76, mother of Mrs. Mary G. Morris, county recorder.

25 YEARS AGO

The Rev. Joseph Sittler of Delaware, son-in-law of William Vieth of Circleville, was extended a call to the pastorate of St. Peter's Lutheran church of Lancaster.

The eightieth birthday anniversary of William H. Howell was celebrated with a family reunion and dinner at the family home on East Franklin street. The birthday cake was decorated in small flags and a shield bearing the dates 1867, 1917 and the number of his regiment in the Civil War.

The close of the dry campaign in Pickaway county was featured by a rally and parade, one of the largest ever held in Circleville.

JEANETTE HEROINE
When Jeanette MacDonald, who will guest on CBS' Stage Door Canteen program Thursday, November 12, 9:30 p. m., leads the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," which the studio audience sings at the close of each Canteen program, every note, to the triumphant finale, will be a symbol of her loyalty, faith and unstinted war services for "the land of the free and the home of the brave."

More than 7,000 soldiers stood in salute when she sang recently at a San Diego Marine Corps program honoring the Marines at Wake Island. Thousands heard her at the impressive Pearl Harbor Memorial at Long Beach. 25,000 soldiers at Ft. Mason applauded her program on I Am An American Day. More than $250,000 in defense stamps and bonds were sold at the "Music for Victory" concert in the Philharmonic Auditorium, at which she made an intermission appearance. And for the last month she has been on a regular concert tour, for the benefit of the Army Emergency Relief, contributing her entire share of the receipts to this organization to care for the destitute families of the Army's fighting men.

WELLES GETS AROUND
Did you know that at 24, Orson Welles, whose new series for Lockheed and Vega, launches November 9, on CBS at 7:15 p. m., had, among other things, been a stage star in Ireland and the U. S.; had frightened a nation with his Martian broadcast; had written and sold pulp magazine stories and a school text book, Shakespeare; had put three Shakespearean productions on phonograph records; had been the Shadow on radio; had organized the Mercury Theatre and its offspring, the Mercury theatre of the air and had put Julius Caesar into a Fascist uniform?

FREEZING HURTS
It cost NBC comics Abbott and Costello $60,000 when they got caught between the "freeze" and the "thaw" of U. S. film rentals in England. But before the comics could get the coin it was frozen again by the wage stabilization directive.

"SULLIVAN'S TRAVELS"
Veronica Lake and George Brent, both well-known to the Radio Theatre audience, will co-star in Cecil B. DeMille's adaptation of the film hit "Sullivan's Travels" Monday at 9 p. m. over CBS.

"Sullivan's Travels" is the story of the peregrinations of John L. Sullivan (George Brent), successful young film producer, who hits the road, incognito, to get real-life atmosphere for a socially-conscious picture.

Sullivan is a successful director of light comedies, which pay off unusually well at the box office for his company. His boss, therefore, is hostile to the idea of Sullivan's abandoning comedy for the serious and arty sort of film fare, which often fails to ring the bell.

JEANETTE HEROINE
When Jeanette MacDonald, who will guest on CBS' Stage Door Canteen program Thursday, November 12, 9:30 p. m., leads the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," which the studio audience sings at the close of each Canteen program, every note, to the triumphant finale, will be a symbol of her loyalty, faith and unstinted war services for "the land of the free and the home of the brave."

More than 7,000 soldiers stood in salute when she sang recently at a San Diego Marine Corps program honoring the Marines at Wake Island. Thousands heard her at the impressive Pearl Harbor Memorial at Long Beach, 25,000 soldiers at Ft. Mason applauded her program on I Am An American Day. More than $250,000 in defense stamps and bonds were sold at the "Music for Victory" concert in the Philharmonic Auditorium, at which she made an intermission appearance. And for the last month she has been on a regular concert tour, for the benefit of the Army Emergency Relief, contributing her entire share of the receipts to this organization to care for the destitute families of the Army's fighting men.

NAT BUSY MAN
Nat Brunloff, orchestra leader on Thanks to the Yanks, starring Bob Hawk, is radio's busiest bandleader these days. In addition to his job on the Hawk show, Brunloff directs the orchestra for Mutual's Double or Nothing and plays first violin for Raymond Paige's Stage Door Canteen orchestra.

WELLES GETS AROUND
Did you know that at 24, Orson Welles, whose new series for Lockwood and Vega, launches November 9, on CBS at 7:15 p. m. had, among other things, been a stage star in Ireland and the U. S.; had frightened a nation with his Martian broadcast; had written and sold pulp magazine stories and a school text book, Shakespeare; had put three Shakespearean productions on phonograph records; had been the Shadow on radio; had organized the Mercury Theatre and its offspring, the Mercury theatre of the air and had put Julius Caesar into a Fascist uniform?

FREEZING HITS
It cost NBC comics Abbott and Costello $60,000 when they got caught between the "freezes" and the "thaw" of U. S. film rentals in England. The $60,000 was their share of profits on the Universal film deal, which were unfrozen on October 24. But before the comics could get the coin it was frozen again by the wage stabilization directive.

"SULLIVAN'S TRAVELS"
Veronica Lake and George Brent, both well-known to the Radio Theatre audience, will co-star in Cecil B. DeMille's adaptation of the film hit "Sullivan's Travels" Monday at 9 p. m. over CBS.

"Sullivan's Travels" is the story of the peregrinations of John L. Sullivan (George Brent), successful young film producer, who hits the road, incognito, to get real-life atmosphere for a social-conscious picture.

Sullivan is a successful director of light comedies, which pay off unusually well at the box office for his company. His boss, therefore, is hostile to the idea of Sullivan's abandoning comedy for the serious and arty sort of film fare, which often fails to ring the bell.

Writing sonnets is a good way to get a grouch out of your system, according to the theory of a retired Latin professor. The professor has had a number of his sonnets published.

TWO ACE TIGER GRIDDERS READY

Illness Knocks 12 Pounds Off Dud Smallwood; Tom Shea To Take Place

Possibility that Circleville high Tigers will be at full strength for the first time in three weeks Friday night when they invade Washington C. H. for the closing game of the 1942 season was seen Monday when Fullback and Tackle Dud Smallwood informed Coach Roy Black he would be ready to participate.

Smallwood played part of the Greenfield game, although ill, and was bedfast all of the next week. He left his bed Sunday, reporting loss of about 12 pounds. He suffered from intestinal influenza.

With Smallwood's return comes added strength especially for the Tiger defensive corps. Whether he plays fullback or tackle he is a power on defense.

At the same time, Coach Black declared that Left Halfback Tommy Shea will probably be ready for full time service. Shea, hurt in the Wilmington game, was in action against Grove City for a single play Friday night. His right leg has started to gain strength after being sprained and he will be in there packing the leather.

Despite the return of these two boys, the Blue Lions will be top heavy favorites to clinch the South Central Ohio League gonfalon in the game. Washington C. H. edged a powerful Bexley team Friday night, 14-13, and has lost only once this year, that a 6-0 game to Chillicothe.

DAYTON FLYERS BACK ON TOP IN OHIO GRID RACE

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9—Harry Baujan's Dayton Flyers today found themselves right back up at the top of the Ohio collegiate grid heap as the season hastened to an abrupt finale with a full slate of games carded for this week.

Dayton skyrocketed right back into the prominent spot they occupied at the beginning of the season with a 14-12 victory over Chattanooga while Wilberforce was being toppled out of the select class of undefeated by the undefeated, untied and unscored on eleven from Kentucky State College, 30-0. For Dayton it marked its seventh win in eight outings.

Only other team stands above Dayton in the standings and it is Marietta, undefeated in a two-game, home-and-home series with powerless Rio Grande. The Pioneers concluded their war-abbreviated schedule with a 24-13 conquest of Rio, but in reality it was a moral victory for the little Rios because the two touchdown spree was the greatest offensive burst shown by the hills school since they last entered the win column some games ago.

Meanwhile, Ohio Northern's powerful Bears moved to the helm of the Ohio Conference race with a 28-0 victory over Mt. Union as Denison was clipped from its league leadership tie, succumbing to Wooster, 26-0. John Carroll, the other co-leader, was idle and hence was shoved into second place with three victories and a tie contrasted to Northern's four wins against a tie.

The scoreboard at Selby Stadium, Delaware, was given a good going over as Miami rebounded into their victory column with a 28-25 conquest of Ohio Wesleyan. Chet Mutryn, leading scorer in the state last year, was Xavier's standout as the Musketeers won their fourth outing in seven attempts. Otterbein remained a challenger for the Ohio Conference title by Ed Roush's touchdown in the closing minutes of play, providing an 8-6 margin of victory over Findlay for the Cardinals fourth win in five league games.

In the southland, Georgia Tech's mighty unbeaten Engineers, which swamped Kentucky, 47-7, will face the severe test of the Alabama Crimson tide which warmed up with a 20-0 victory over South Carolina. Georgia's Bulldogs, who ran wild to a 75-0 conquest of Florida, have another breather carded with Centre.

Tulsa A Power
The amazing Tulsa U. club was finally scored on as it wallowed Oklahoma A & M, 34-6, but just about ran the Missouri Valley Conference championship flag up its flagpole. They will next meet Baylor of the southwest in a game which should provide a good comparison of intersectional power.

Texas, apparently best in the southwest, trimmed Baylor 20-0, and next meets TCU upset by Texas Tech, 13-6. Rice, which ran away and hid from weak Arkansas, 40-9, will undoubtedly have more trouble with Texas Aggies which beat out Southern Methodist, 27-20, in a furious passing carnival.

Biggest form reversals on the west coast saw Oregon, which has never lost to the UCLANS on its home grounds, uphold tradition

Four Teams Remain As Outstanding In Nation

By Jack Mahon
NEW YORK, Nov. 9—Football's four horsemen of the Apocalypse, who apparently can survive all the horrors represented in their biblical background—Boston College, Georgia, Georgia Tech and Tulsa—ramped on to further glory on the gridiron Saturday but in their wake came another wave of form upsets which drowned no less than a dozen favorites in other parts of the country.

Biggest explosions of the day saw Penn fall before a supposedly weak Navy club; Wisconsin, one of the nation's leaders, humiliated by a fighting Iowa team; California Bears' claws clipped by the hot and cold Trojans of Southern California and the Rose Bowl hopefuls of U.C.L.A. rudely shocked by Oregon's Webfoot.

Before coming the ruins for explanations, alibis and a look at what to order in the way of crying towels next week end we find the following clubs leading a stumbling parade in various sections of the country:

East: Boston College.
Mid-West: Ohio State, Michigan, Notre Dame.
South: Georgia and Georgia Tech.
Southwest: Texas and Texas A. & M.
Missouri Valley: Tulsa.
Far West: Washington State.

Others Upset

The quartet of upsets mentioned above represents only a few of the screwy happenings which continued to torment so-called football experts all over the nation. Other under-dogs who chewed up fat, favored teams included Indiana over Minnesota; Cornell over Yale; LSU over Fordham; Brown over Holy Cross; Dartmouth over Princeton; Stanford over Washington; Texas Tech over Texas Christian and Mississippi State over Tulane.

The biggest game in the east saw a fighting, but over-anxious Army team defeated by Notre Dame, 13-0, before about 75,000 at the Yankee stadium here. The score should have been 7-0 for the Irish's final touchdown, on a fluke pass in the last 20 seconds of play, was distinctly a freak. Army would have made a game of it and would have gotten no worse than a tie if it had passed instead of trying to shake crippled Hank Mazur and Ralph Hill loose all afternoon.

Notre Dame will have to improve considerably on the ground if they expect to get past Michigan next Saturday.

Heroes of the week in this sector were the gallant midshipment of Navy. Rated one of the poor-gest clubs in Annapolis history, the middies scored one of the big upsets of the wild and wooly season. Shackled on the ground, the Navy went into the air and, on three completed passes mixed with a few runs, scored, kicked the point and then fought off drive after drive of the superior Penn backfield to win 7-0.

The poor Fordham Rams, after taking an early 7-0 lead, watched Louisiana State, led by a sub-halfback named Sulcer Harris, explode for four last-half touchdowns and a 26-13 triumph. This didn't make the Rams' next encounter with big and burly Boston College look too inviting. The Eagles had a workout with Temple, 28-0.

The other big games in the mid-west Saturday will find Iowa and Minnesota, which was upset 7-0 on Indiana Billy Millerbrand's pass to Right End Pete Pihos in the final three and a half minutes of play, meeting at Minneapolis. Ohio State, which routed Pittsburgh, 59-19, meets Illinois, which trimmed Northwestern 14-7, at Cleveland.

In the southland, Georgia Tech's mighty unbeaten Engineers, which swamped Kentucky, 47-7, will face the severe test of the Alabama Crimson tide which warmed up with a 20-0 victory over South Carolina. Georgia's Bulldogs, who ran wild to a 75-0 conquest of Florida, have another breather carded with Centre.

Biggest form reversals on the west coast saw Oregon, which has never lost to the UCLANS on its home grounds, uphold tradition with a 14-7 triumph and USC rise again, after a couple of dull weeks, to trim California's highly favored Bears, 21-7.

Stanford's up and down Indians were up again to scalp Washington 20-7 while Washington State was wallowing Michigan State, 25-13, in an intersectional game.

Weekend menu for the coast will feature: So. California-Oregon and Washington-California pre-flight battles.

CHICAGO BEARS STILL RAMBLING TOWARD HONORS

By International News Service
While the mighty Chicago Bears rolled on easily to their 20th consecutive victory and their seventh straight triumph of the season in the National Professional Football league race, the Washington Redskins today continued to dominate the eastern division of the circuit.

Apparently keeping their pet plays under wraps for the crucial game with the Green Bay Packers next week end, the champion Bears relied mainly on straight football to crush the Brooklyn Dodgers, 35 to 0, at Ebbets field yesterday. Holding in leash their aerial pyrotechnics, the Bears, dominated the play from the opening kickoff and scored in every period to hand the Dodgers their worst defeat of the season. While Hugh Gallarneau clicked for two touchdowns and averaged 7.5 yards for the nine times he carried the ball, there was nothing wrong with the performances of Gary Fiamigietti, Harry Clark, Frank Mazzicki and Ray Nolting. Clark, Mazzicki and John Petty rang up a touchdown apiece.

"Slingin' Sammy" Baugh pitched the Redskins to a 28 to 0 victory over the Chicago Cardinals at Washington. The Packers, trailing the Bears by one game, were given a scare in the fourth quarter at Cleveland, then chalked up a pair of touchdowns to defeat the Rams, 30 to 12. Don Hutson, the Packers' great end, broke two league records by scoring 21 points in the game. He became the first player in league history to score more than 100 points in a season, raising his total to 103; he made 13 touchdowns on passes and shattered by one the scoring pass mark set up by him and George McAfee last season.

At Detroit, Bill Dudley of Pittsburgh who tops the league in ground gaining was limited to 67 yards in 15 running attempts, but the Steelers came through to hand the Lions their eighth successive defeat of the season, 35 to 7.

Hank Soar and Andy Marefos plunged over for touchdowns in the second period at Shibe park to give the New York Giants a 14 to 0 victory over the Philadelphia

Hawkeyes Turn Back Strong Wisconsin Team In Big Ten Feature

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9—Just when it appeared to be all over but the shouting, along came a Farmer from Iowa and a band of inspired Hoosier hot-shots to turn the Western Conference race into a topsy-turvy condition which today looks like anyone's race between the first five contenders, Ohio State, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Iowa, fired up by a similar homecoming spirit which enabled Wisconsin to trim Ohio State a week previous, turned back those same Badgers, 6-

TWO ACE TIGER GRIDDERS READY

Illness Knocks 12 Pounds Off
Dud Smallwood; Tom Shea
To Take Place

Possibility that Circleville high Tigers will be at full strength for the first time in three weeks Friday night when they invade Washington C. H. for the closing game of the 1942 season was seen Monday when Fullback and Tackle Dud Smallwood informed Coach Roy Black he would be ready to participate.

Smallwood played part of the Greenfield game, although ill, and was bedfast all of the next week. He left his bed Sunday, reporting loss of about 12 pounds. He suffered from intestinal influenza.

With Smallwood's return comes added strength especially for the Tiger defensive corps. Whether he plays fullback or tackle he is a power on defense.

At the same time, Coach Black declared that Left Halfback Tommy Shea will probably be ready for full time service. Shea, hurt in the Wilmington game, was in action against Grove City for a single play Friday night. His right leg has started to gain strength after being sprained and he will be in there packing the leather.

Despite the return of these two boys, the Blue Lions will be top heavy favorites to clinch the South Central Ohio League gonfalon in the game. Washington C. H. edged a powerful Bexley team Friday night, 14-13, and has lost only once this year, that a 6-0 game to Chillicothe.

DAYTON FLYERS BACK ON TOP IN OHIO GRID RACE

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9 — Harry Baujan's Dayton Flyers today found themselves right back up at the top of the Ohio collegiate grid heap as the season hastened to an abrupt finale with a full slate of games carded for this week.

Dayton skyrocketed right back into the prominent spot they occupied at the beginning of the season with a 14-12 victory over Chattanooga while Wilberforce was being toppled out of the select class of undefeated by the undefeated, untied and unscored on eleven from Kentucky State College, 30-0. For Dayton it marked its seventh win in eight outings.

Only other team stands above Dayton in the standings and it is Marietta, undefeated in a two-game, home-and-home series with powerless Rio Grande. The Pioneers concluded their war-abbreviated schedule with a 24-13 conquest of Rio, but in reality it was a moral victory for the little Rios because the two touchdown spree was the greatest offensive burst shown by the hills school since they last entered the win column some games ago.

Meanwhile, Ohio Northern's powerful Bears moved to the helm of the Ohio Conference race with a 28-0 victory over Mt. Union as Denison was clipped from its league leadership tie, succumbing to Wooster, 26-0. John Carroll, the other co-leader, was idle and hence was shoved into second place with three victories and a tie contrasted to Northern's four wins against a tie.

The scoreboard at Selby Stadium, Delaware, was given a good going over as Miami rebounded into their victory column with a 28-25 conquest of Ohio Wesleyan. Chet Mutryn, leading scorer in the state last year, was Xavier's standout as the Musketeers won their fourth outing in seven attempts. Otterbein remained a challenger for the Ohio Conference title by Ed Roush's touchdown in the closing minutes of play, providing an 8-6 margin of victory over Findlay for the Cardinals fourth win in five league games.

The poor Fordham Rams, after taking an early 7-0 lead, watched Louisiana State, led by a sub halfback named Sulzer Harris, explode for four last-half touchdowns and a 26-13 triumph. This didn't make the Rams' next encounter with big and burly Boston College look too inviting. The Eagles had a workout with Temple, 28-0.

The other big games in the mid-west Saturday will find Iowa and Minnesota, which was upset 7-0 by Indiana Billy Millenbrand's pass to Right End Pete Pinos in the final three and a half minutes of play, meeting at Minneapolis. Ohio State, which routed Pittsburgh, 59-19, meets Illinois, which trimmed Northwestern 14-7, at Cleveland.

In the southland, Georgia Tech's mighty unbeaten Engineers, which swamped Kentucky, 47-7, will face the severe test of the Alabama Crimson tide which warmed up with a 20-0 victory over South Carolina. Georgia's Bulldogs, who ran wild to a 75-0 conquest of Florida, have another breather carded with Centre.

DUBUQUE VARSITY WINS EIGHT FOR CLEAN SLATE

DUBUQUE, Ia., Nov. 9 — Content with its eight victories in as many starts, the University of Dubuque football squad, the only undefeated and untied team in Iowa and winner of the Iowa conference championship, packed up its gridiron equipment today and announced it was not interested in any post season games.

"The boys have had a hard grind and are willing to call it quits for the season," Coach Kenneth Mercer declared. "We have been tendered two bids for post season games, but we're going to take several weeks vacation and then start basketball practice."

The Spartans closed their season Saturday by defeating Parsons College, 19 to 0, piling up 236 points for the season.

Four Teams Remain As Outstanding In Nation

By Jack Mahon

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—Football's four horsemen of the Apocalypse, who apparently can survive all the horrors represented in their biblical background — Boston College, Georgia, Georgia Tech and Tulsa—romped on to further glory on the gridiron Saturday but in their wake came another wave of form upsets which drowned no less than a dozen favorites in other parts of the country.

Biggest explosions of the day saw Penn fall before a supposedly weak Navy club; Wisconsin, one of the nation's leaders, humiliated by a fighting Iowa team; California Bears' claws clipped by the hot and cold Trojans of Southern California and the Rose Bowl hopefuls of U.C.L.A. rudely shocked by Oregon's Webfoot.

Before combing the ruins for explanations, alibis and a look at what to order in the way of crying towels next week end we find the following clubs leading a stumbling parade in various sections of the country:

East: Boston College.

Tracer bullets, generally used in night combat, enable the gun operator to note the accuracy of fire, since course of the bullet may be followed to the target. This is important in air combat, especially.

Cost of these bullets, of course, varies with the caliber, but 1,000 rounds of .50-caliber machine gun tracer bullets cost in the neighborhood of $250. Your purchase of War Bonds and War Stamps will help pay for the millions of rounds of ammunition needed for tracer bullet-fire. Invest AT LEAST TEN PERCENT of income in War Bonds every payday. # District American Legion Votes Approval of Teen Draft Bill

YEAR TRAINING PLAN OPPOSED BY VETERANS

War Department Backed In Proposals Made To Law Makers

125 DELEGATES ATTEND Pickaway County Delegation Plays Part In Session At Portsmouth

American Legionnaires and auxiliary members from eight posts representing the Seventh Ohio district went on record Sunday at a conference in Portsmouth favoring approval of the draft of eighteen and nineteen year old youths for military service as proposed by the War Department.

The resolution disapproved of the provision of one year of training prior to combat service as urged by some members of the congress.

The conference was attended by more than 125 delegates from Pickaway, Fayette, Highland, Ross, Scioto, Pike, Lawrence and Adams counties. Present from Circleville were Mr. and Mrs. Orin Dreisbach, Mrs. B. T. Hedges and E. C. Ebert. Mrs. Dreisbach, who is district president of the auxiliary, was in the charge of auxiliary sessions.

It was planned also to conduct a Winter session of the district with Gus Boop of Portsmouth, given authority to decide the place and date. Cancellation of the Winter session was considered because of the transportation problem.

The combined meeting of Legionnaires and auxiliary members was addressed by Rosier Williams of Oak Hill, vice commander of the Ohio department of the Legion. He urged that persons on the home front continue their all-out effort in supplying arms and materials for our fighting forces, and that "preparations should be made now for a permanent peace when the conflict is terminated."

Mrs. A. M. Davidson of Chillicothe, vice-president of the Ohio department auxiliary, urged a continuance of a religious program that will permit freedom of worship in our armed forces.

James Dickey post home was scene of the conference, host of officers being Lewis Mault, post commander at Portsmouth, and Mrs. Merrill L. Rowe, auxiliary president.

While Pickaway county Selective Service board will not be forced to call up its married men for induction into the armed forces before January at the earliest, men of Ross and Fayette counties who list wives only as their dependents will be leaving for Army camps in December, it was indicated Monday.

Ross county board announced Monday that 50 married men would be given screening examinations November 19 with the possibility being that they will be in service in December. Reclassification has started there.

In Fayette county demands for men have been so heavy that 200 married men with wives only have been reclassified into I-A and may be called at any moment. Washington C. H. service board expects its first married men to go in December, the same month in which Ross county will assign its first group.

While it was indicated Monday that congress may take early action on the teen age measure, some legislators said that even if passage is voted immediately it is estimated that boards will send at least 200,000 married men into camps in quotas during the next two months. They point out that it will require 30 to 40 days after passage of the measure to get draft machinery going to move the 18 and 19 year olds into camps.

United States Planes Swarm To Captured Airfields And Join Fight

Germans even faster than the British were able to do at the height of their assault on Norway, and thus greatly strengthening the hand of American ground forces.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS

American forces swarmed ashore in North Africa today in new landings and the British and American fleet apparently has inflicted a heavy defeat on the French navy off Casablanca.

News of the smashing new allied successes came early today in an official Vichy communique which frankly admitted that its fleet had suffered serious losses.

On the heels of this victory the Anglo-American warships resumed their bombardment of Casablanca, the main Moroccan port on the Atlantic, while lighter units were engaging French warships at the Mediterranean port of Oran.

Oran surrounded

Oran was admitted to be virtually surrounded after American forces made new landings east and west of the port.

As their subject nation took the blows of the Allies, the Rome radio "speculated" on the possibility that the Italian navy might steam westward, presumably to enter the far-flung fight, but there had been no definite news that Mussolini's warships had been sighted anywhere near the scene of action.

Axis reports that their aircraft had attacked Allied warships in the western Mediterranean here without confirmation from any Allied source.

These reports came on the heels of Vichy's announcement that an Armistice had been signed between American and French forces in Algiers at 10 a. m. American troops and air forces were reported moving inland to consolidate their gains. The Americans went ashore at 13 different points on the Atlantic and Mediterranean coasts of the French African territories.

According To Plan

All indications were that the Anglo-American offensive aimed at preventing the rich French colonial lands from falling to the axis, was going ahead not only "according to plan," but considerably faster.

On other fronts the news was not good for the axis. From Libya came word that Nazi Field Marshal Rommel's tank and armored forces were continuing their headlong flight.

The enemy crossed into Libya, closely pursued, with a reported 20,000 men and scant remnants of its once powerful panzer forces. The bag of prisoners was believed to have passed 40,000, and thousands more were encircled in the Egyptian desert by small holding forces while the main force of Lieut. Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's eighth army kept close to the heels of Rommel's dwindling units.

Russ Halt Huns

The Army's halt communique announced repulse of a new Nazi attack in the factory area of Stalingrad, and a local success northwest of the beleaguered Volga city. The Soviets also reported smashing a tank-supported Nazi attack southeast of Nalchik, in the Caucasus sector.

During Sunday American flying fortresses in daylight raids bombed locomotive works in the Geat industrial centre of Lille in the north of occupied France, and the German airdrome at Abbeville nearer the channel coast. The RAF meanwhile gave Italy's big port of Genoa a severe bombing early Sunday for the second time in successive nights.

In the Pacific, American bombers were also busy, attacking Makilo Island near the southwest tip of New Britain, and Gasmata.

On New Britain's southern coast, American ground troops were preparing to move forward on Buna, the Japanese base on New Guinea which has been the source of supplies for the Nipponese attacking the Solomons.

Appeal of Herbert W. Minshall, Pickaway county farm employee, from a 1-A classification has been refused by the district appeals board in a decision announced Monday. Minshall remains in 1-A.

The board, meeting in Chillicothe, considered 63 appeals and granted 17 deferments. The Minshall case was the only one considered from Pickaway county.

Second Front Campaign Proceeds According to Plan, Washington Says

Ka Korps of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel who has been retreating westward under the sledge hammer blows of Britain's Egyptian army.

Strategic Area

The American action obviously was aimed at seizing control of the strategic area in the western Mediterranean which could be used effectively to blast axis positions in Italy and as the starting point for an invasion of the continent.

The battle dispatches listed at least 13 places in Algeria and Morocco where the American forces, including Commando-trained Rangers and paratroopers, swarmed ashore and established beachheads. There were six focal objectives, however, the key ports of Algiers, Oran, Casablanca, Rabat, Media and Safi.

In addition to the surrender of Algiers, American capture of Safi, virtual occupation of Media and landings at Fedala, Bouznikah and Port Lyautey on the Moroccan coast were acknowledged by Vichy. These actions hemmed in the chief Moroccan ports of Casablanca and Rabat and severed connections between them.

The latest developments in the North African campaign came after the War department disclosed that Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle was in charge of the air forces in this area.

Doolittle last was heard from after he directed the mysterious and successful air raid against Tokyo and other important Japanese cities.

The entire operations have been under the direction of Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who has been in charge of the American forces in the European theatre of operations.

Marshall congratulated Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, commander of the British army in the Middle East, on the success of the British forces in routing the axis troops.

"The generalship, tactics, gallantry and victory of your forces commands my admiration and that of the American army and probably marks the turn of the axis tide," Marshall said. "Please pass my congratulations on to Montgomery and Tedder."

MRS. ALICE A. GATTON, MADISON TOWNSHIP, DIES

Survivors include two sons, George, at whose home she died, and Harley of Columbus, and a brother, Nelson Reid of Lancaster.

Funeral will be Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the George Gatton residence, the Rev. E. H. E. Winterhoff officiating. Burial will be in Fernwood cemetery, Lockbourne, by E. F. Schlegel.

BOUGHT BEER FOR CHILD, CHARGE AGAINST TOLES

James Toles, 38, of 642 South Scioto street, was being held in Circleville jail Monday pending investigation of charges that he bought beer for 14-year-old Robert Burgett, of Logan, who has been staying in Circleville.

Toles is charged with intoxication and investigation. Young Burgett, who was released from juvenile court last week with a lecture after taking keys from a parked automobile, was back before Juvenile Judge Lemuel Welton for another hearing.

RABBIT HUNTER FINED

Walter Muething, Columbus, arranged to pay a fine of $25 and costs Sunday when he was ordered before Squire B. T. Hedges for hunting on Sunday. Game protectors Clarence Francis and Irvin Patrick who arrested him in Perry township said he was hunting rabbits, but did not have any in his possession at the time of the arrest.

DIPLOMATS PAVE WAY FOR DRIVE INTO AFRICA

Advance Work Expected To Bring Quick Collapse Of French Resistance

rica to prepare the way for the military move there.

In line with this policy, the United States maintained trade relations with the French North African colonies, shipping them badly needed materials in return for cork and other products. It was under this trade arrangement that the 20 American "observers" were sent to North Africa. Ostensibly, they went there to watch the distribution of American goods, but their real mission was to win over the people of French North Africa and persuade them to offer little or no resistance when the day of liberation came.

American officials acknowledge frankly that the State department's position toward Vichy is now being put to the test in North Africa.

Policy Justified

Hull is understood to feel that his policy already has been justified by the fact that the American agents were able to pave the way for the landing of the U. S. expeditionary forces. He is confident that the policy will be further justified by the collapse before long of all important French resistance there.

The secretary believes that the traditional friendship which has existed between the people of the United States and France for 150 years, coupled with the advance work of the American diplomatic agents in North Africa, will lead Frenchmen there to show only weak resistance to the American forces.

Indifferent To Vichy

Meanwhile, Hull let it be known that this government views with indifference the Vichy government's decision to sever diplomatic relations with the United States. The secretary feels that such action was to be expected from the pro-Hitler group in Vichy once American military forces moved to liberate French North Africa.

French Ambassador Gaston Henry Haye is expected to ask for his passport during the day, thus bringing to an end the formal relations which have existed between the United States and France for 164 years.

S. Pinkney Tuck, the American charge d'affaires in Vichy, and his staff were believed to be packing their diplomatic bags preparatory to leaving the country to which Benjamin Franklin first went as American envoy in 1778.

America's relations with France date from the very inception of the republic. France was the first foreign nation with whom the United States established formal diplomatic relations.

Following the assistance France rendered the new American nation in achieving its independence from Great Britain, Benjamin Franklin proceeded to Paris and negotiated a treaty of amity and commerce between France and the original 13 states of the new world. This treaty was signed on February 6, 1778.

HOUSE GATHERS FOR TEST VOTE ON TEEN DRAFT

President Roosevelt, Secretary of War Stimson and Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, are vigorously opposed to the O'Daniel amendment, as are administration leaders in Congress.

The Army's protest against the amendment was further voiced when Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson warned that its adoption would weaken the Army, prolong the war and cost increased loss of lives. Its passage, Patterson said, would "tell Hitler and the Japanese that while we are against them, we are not all out against them."

As Rankin prepared to make this motion, House leaders were confident that the lower branch would reject it.

Rep. Joe Martin, GOP leader, said that he opposed the motion because he wanted the Senate and House conferees free to negotiate on the final bill.

"I don't think the motion will carry," Rep. Ramspeck of Georgia, Democratic whip, asserted.

Chairman Andrew J. May (D) Ky., of the House Military Affairs committee, took a similar position. "I originally had a training limitation in a bill I sponsored, but I voluntarily withdrew it when I found the President and the War department were opposed to it," May said.

"The word of the men who actually conduct this war was good enough for me, and I think it will be for most members of the House. Gen. Marshall has assured us that no boy is going into this war without full and adequate training. I believe him."

"The history of the last war is replete with complaints that American boys were sent into the trenches in France with little or no training. Gen. Pershing himself speaks of this in his memoirs.

"My desk has been piled high with letters in the last two weeks, mostly from mothers, who are afraid that this draft will provide the means for duplicating conditions prevalent in the last war unless Congress acts.

"I can't see this argument that we must have these boys immediately. The United Nations have no manpower shortage. With Russia and China, we've got soldiers to spare. What we need is equipment and material and plenty of it, not untrained boys."

District American Legion Votes Approval of Teen Draft Bill

YEAR TRAINING PLAN OPPOSED BY VETERANS

War Department Backed In Proposals Made To Law Makers

125 DELEGATES ATTEND

Pickaway County Delegation Plays Part In Session At Portsmouth

American Legionnaires and auxiliary members from eight posts representing the Seventh Ohio district went on record Sunday at a conference in Portsmouth favoring approval of the draft of eighteen and nineteen year old youths for military service as proposed by the War Department.

The resolution disapproved of the provision of one year of training prior to combat service as urged by some members of the congress.

The conference was attended by more than 125 delegates from Pickaway, Fayette, Highland, Ross, Scioto, Pike, Lawrence and Adams counties. Present from Circleville were Mr. and Mrs. Orin Dreisbach, Mrs. B. T. Hedges and E. C. Ebert. Mrs. Dreisbach, who is district president of the auxiliary, was in the charge of auxiliary sessions.

It was planned also to conduct a winter session of the district with Gus Boop of Portsmouth, given authority to decide the place and date. Cancellation of the winter session was considered because of the transportation problem.

The combined meeting of Legionnaires and auxiliary members was addressed by Rositer Williams of Oak Hill, vice commander of the Ohio department of the Legion. He urged that persons on the home front continue their all-out effort in supplying arms and materials for our fighting forces, and that "preparations should be made now for a permanent peace when the conflict is terminated."

Mrs. A. M. Davidson of Chillicothe, vice-president of the Ohio department auxiliary, urged a continuance of a religious program that will permit freedom of worship in our armed forces.

James Dickey post home was scene of the conference, host officers being Lewis Mault, post commander at Portsmouth, and Mrs. Merrill L. Rowe, auxiliary president.

While Pickaway county Selective Service board will not be forced to call up its married men for induction into the armed forces before January at the earliest, men of Ross and Fayette counties who list wives only as their dependents will be leaving for Army camps in December, it was indicated Monday.

Ross county board announced Monday that 50 married men would be given screening examinations November 19 with the possibility being that they will be in service in December. Reclassification has started there.

In Fayette county demands for men have been so heavy that 200 married men with wives only have been reclassified into I-A and may be called at any moment. Washington C. H. service board expects its first married men to go in December, the same month in which Ross county will assign its first group.

While it was indicated Monday that congress may take early action on the teen age measure, some legislators said that even if passage is voted immediately it is estimated that boards will send at least 200,000 married men into camps in quotas during the next two months. They point out that it will require 30 to 40 days after passage of the measure to get draft machinery going to move the 18 and 19 year olds into camps.

United States Planes Swarm To Captured Airfields And Join Fight

fields even faster than the Germans were able to do at the height of their assault on Norway, and thus greatly strengthening the hand of American ground forces.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS
American forces swarmed ashore in North Africa today in new landings and the British and American fleet apparently has inflicted a heavy defeat on the French navy off Casablanca.

News of the smashing new allied successes came early today in an official Vichy communique which frankly admitted that its fleet had suffered serious losses.

On the heels of this victory the Anglo-American warships resumed their bombardment of Casablanca, the main Moroccan port on the Atlantic, while lighter units were engaging French warships at the Mediterranean port of Oran.

Oran was admitted to be virtually surrounded after American forces made new landings east and west of the port.

As their subject nation took the blows of the Allies, the Rome radio "speculated" on the possibility that the Italian navy might steam westward, presumably to enter the far-flung fight, but there had been no definite news that Mussolini's warships had been sighted anywhere near the scene of action.

Axis reports that their aircraft had attacked Allied warships in the western Mediterranean here without confirmation from any Allied source.

These reports came on the heels of Vichy's announcement that an Armistice had been signed between American and French forces in Algiers at 10 a. m. American troops and air forces were reported moving inland to consolidate their gains. The Americans went ashore at 13 different points on the Atlantic and Mediterranean coasts of the French African territories.

According To Plan
All indications were that the Anglo-American offensive aimed at preventing the rich French colonial lands from falling to the axis, was going ahead not only "according to plan," but considerably faster.

On other fronts the news was not good for the axis. From Libya came word that Nazi Field Marshal Rommel's tank and armored forces were continuing their headlong flight.

The enemy crossed into Libya, closely pursued, with a reported 20,000 men and scant remnants of its once powerful panzer forces. The bag of prisoners was believed to have passed 40,000, and thousands more were encircled in the Egyptian desert by small holding forces while the main force of Lieut. Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's eighth army kept close to the heels of Rommel's dwindling units.

Russ Halt Huns
The Army's noon communique announced repulse of a new Nazi attack in the factory area of Stalingrad, and a local success northwest of the beleaguered Volga city.

The Soviets also reported smashing a tank-supported Nazi attack southeast of Nalchik, in the Caucasus sector.

During Sunday American flying fortresses in daylight raids bombed locomotive works in the Gest industrial center of Lille in the north of occupied France, and the German airbase at Abbeville nearer the channel coast. The RAF meanwhile gave Italy's big port of Genoa a severe bombing early Sunday for the second time in successive nights.

In the Pacific, American bombers were also busy, attacking Makilo Island near the southwest tip of New Britain, and Gasmata, ka Korps of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel who has been retreating westward under the sledge hammer blows of Britain's Egyptian army.

Strategic Area

The American action obviously was aimed at seizing control of the strategic area in the western Mediterranean which could be used effectively to blast axis positions in Italy and as the starting point for an invasion of the continent.

The battle dispatches listed at least 13 places in Algeria and Morocco where the American forces, including Commando-trained Rangers and paratroopers, swarmed ashore and established beachheads. There were six focal objectives, however, the key ports of Algiers, Oran, Casablanca, Rabat, Media and Safi.

In addition to the surrender of Algiers, American capture of Safi, virtual occupation of Media and landings at Fedala, Bouznikah and Port Lyautay on the Moroccan coast were acknowledged by Vichy. These actions hemmed in the chief Moroccan ports of Casablanca and Rabat and severed connections between them.

The latest developments in the North African campaign came after the War department disclosed that Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle was in charge of the air forces in this area.

Doolittle last was heard from after he directed the mysterious and successful air raid against Tokyo and other important Japanese cities.

The entire operations have been under the direction of Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who has been in charge of the American forces in the European theatre of operations.
